Co-operation with the shipping in-terests, the city's business men and manufacturers and all citizens is prom-ised by George F. Sproule, who will be director of the Department of Wharves, Docks and Ferries, when he assumes office.

His appointment was announced by Mayor-elect Moore.

Mr. Sproule's efforts will be bent toward obtaining everything the city needs to make it the foremost port in needs to make it the appendix the country.

"It is my purpose to consult shipping interests and others directly interested in the port's welfare, and to work in conjunction with them to make Philadelphia a greater and better port," said Mr. Sproule today, in discussing his plans.

"I will make a study of what is needed for the port. Then I will try to obtain the things needed.

He will face unusual conditions when He will face unusual conditions when he assumes office. Among the things he will have to consider is the future of Gog Island, which may become a terminal, or even part of a free zone. If Philadelphia is made a free port, the first in this country, unusual problems will face him, problems which in many ways he will not be able to solve without learning lessons taught by European experiences with such ports.

Another problem he faces is the unusual condition brought about by the great quantity of shipping now using Philadelphia as a terminus.

Congestion threatens because of it and because of the lack of a deeper channel.

Plans for the latter are made and au appropriation is now pending in Conmanded cigarettes.
